INTRODUCTION

In its Reply in support of its motion to dismiss or for summary judgment (ECF No. 230), the Government doubles down on the errors that plagued its initial filing. It expands on legal arguments that previously were made only in passing (if at all) but its legal positions remain untenable; indeed, the Government frequently must ignore or mispresent the language of the decisions on which it purportedly relies merely to try to justify its indefensible positions. And factually it continues to rely primarily on tables prepared by its consultants that are inadmissible under Federal Rule of Evidence 1006 or any other evidentiary rule.

For these and other reasons set out in Plaintiffs' Opposition filed May 21, 2020 ("Opp.") (ECF No. 222) and elaborated below, the Court should deny the Government's motion as to the great majority of the 2,319 opt-in plaintiffs currently subject to the motion. The opt-ins for whom dismissal is improper are set out in Appendices A-E to this filing.

ARGUMENT

I. The Court Has Jurisdiction Over The Claims Of All But The Small Number of Plaintiffs Whose Filings Reflect That They Were Not Government Employees Or Are Insufficient To Determine Whether They Were Government Employees.

A. The Government Has No Support for its Contention that Opt-In Plaintiffs Who Allegedly Cannot Satisfy Each of the Conditions of the Collective Action Lack Article III Standing.

The parties agree that opt-in Plaintiffs who were not employees of the Government or have not provided sufficient information about themselves or their agency to establish an employer-employee relationship lack Article III standing to sue the Government under the FLSA. See Opp. at 7; Reply at 9. But the Government goes further. It argues that any Plaintiff who is subject to its Motion – 2,319 in all – for allegedly failing to meet one or more of the conditions for an FLSA claim lacks Article III standing. Reply at 9-10 (stating that "[t]o establish Article III standing ..., plaintiffs must show ... (2) an injury-in-fact caused by the defendant); id. at 15 (stating that plaintiffs “have failed to satisfy Article III standing requirements” as to over 2,100 Opt-In Plaintiffs “because they cannot show an ‘injury-in-fact’ resulting from the United States’s [sic] failure to pay them on their regularly scheduled paydays for work performed between October 1-5, 2013”).

The Government cites five decisions in supposed support of its contention that employees who allegedly fail to meet one or more of the conditions for a FLSA claim lack Article III standing. None provides the supposed support. See Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins, 136 S. Ct. 1540, 1549-50 (2016) (remanding Fair Credit Reporting Act case to circuit court, which had reversed dismissal for lack of Article III standing without considering whether plaintiff had alleged a “concrete” injury against a company that had disseminated incorrect information about plaintiff); Halle v. West Penn Allegheny Health Sys., 842 F.3d 215, 229 (3d Cir. 2016) (discussing right of putative collective action members to appeal, which “does not raise concerns of standing”); Morgan v. Family Dollar Stores, Inc., 551 F.3d 1233, 1258 (11th Cir. 2008) (explaining two-stage certification process for FLSA collective actions without ever discussing standing); Comer v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 454 F.3d 544, 546-47 (6th Cir. 2006) (same); Colozzi v. St. Joseph’s Hosp. Health Ctr., 275 F.R.D. 75, 81 (N.D.N.Y. 2011) (granting employer’s partial motion for summary judgment on the merits for failure to satisfy all requirements to opt-in; never discussing standing issues). The lack of support is unsurprising; the Government’s position would read 12(b)(6) and summary judgment motions out of challenges to FLSA claims.

This is not only a technical procedural disagreement. Because the Government’s motion properly is one for summary judgment except as to opt-in Plaintiffs who failed to present sufficient information to establish an employer-employee relationship, the Government’s motion must be denied to the extent that there are genuine issues of material fact.

B. Only 110 Opt-In Plaintiffs Remain Unidentified.

In its January 2020 filing, the Government identified 211 opt-ins over whom the Court lacked jurisdiction because it supposedly could not identify them as its employees. Reply at 4. Plaintiffs in May provided additional information, primarily social security numbers, as to 153 of them, believing that with that information the Government surely would be able to identify them.<sup>1</sup> Id. at 4 & n.5; Opp. at 7. In its Reply, however, the Government states that even with the social security numbers and/or other information its agencies were able to identify only 76 (half) of those opt-ins, leaving 134 unidentified opt-ins. Reply at 4-5.

Plaintiffs re-reviewed the list and reached out again to many opt-ins for whom they had valid contact information. As a result, they have identified corrected or additional information concerning 24 of the 134. The persons for whom plaintiffs provide additional information and who are submitting declarations are identified on Appendix A to this filing. As a result, there are now only 110 unidentified opt-ins; 24 of the 134 have been identified. In addition, 5 opt-in plaintiffs allege in their declarations that, to the best of their memory, they were non-exempt employees, worked during the first week of October 2013, and were not paid for that work on their regularly scheduled payday. None of these 5 opt-ins should be dismissed as unidentified.

<sup>1</sup> Defendants state that Plaintiffs provided additional information on only 153 of the Unidentified Plaintiffs. Reply at 4 n. 5. Plaintiffs originally believed there were 168 or 155 opt-ins for whom they provided additional information. Opp. at 7 & 29. Plaintiffs provided additional information for 38 opt-ins on May 8, 2020 and 128 on May 12, 2020, for a total of 166. Plaintiffs inadvertently counted the header rows in these spreadsheets to arrive at 168. However, Defendants informed Plaintiffs that seven of those opt-ins were no longer on the unidentified list, and Plaintiffs then identified four more who were also no longer on the unidentified list for a total of 11. Plaintiffs subtracted these 11 plaintiffs from the 166 to arrive at 155. In its reply, Defendants for the first-time state that two of the 155 were duplicates, and therefore no longer on the unidentified list. See Reply at 4 n. 5 (citing Rev. Chess Decl. ¶ 20 n. 1). Based on this, Plaintiffs agree that they provided additional information for 153 of the currently unidentified opt-ins.

II. Fourteen Opt-Ins Have Claims In This Case Notwithstanding the Agencies For Which They Worked.

A. The Government’s Arguments that Five Opt-In Plaintiffs Worked for Agencies Not Covered by the FLSA Rely on Blatant Distortions of the Law.

Plaintiffs showed in their opposition that five opt-ins worked for three agencies – the Smithsonian Institution, the Export-Import Bank, and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission – subject to the FLSA under 29 U.S.C. § 203(e)(2)(A), which incorporates the definition of an executive agency in 5 U.S.C. § 105. Section 105 defines an executive agency to include an “Executive department, a Government corporation, and an independent establishment.” The Government’s arguments that these three agencies are not independent establishments or Government corporations blatantly distort the holdings in multiple decisions.

As to the Smithsonian, Plaintiffs relied in their opposition on Expeditions Unlimited Aquatic Enterprises, Inc. v. Smithsonian Institution, 566 F.2d 289, 296 (D.C. Cir. 1977) (en banc), a case arising under the Federal Tort Claims Act (“FTCA”) in which the D.C. Circuit held that the Institution is an “independent establishment.” Opp. at 9. The Government falsely states that Dong v. Smithsonian Institution, 125 F.3d 877, 879 (D.C. Cir. 1997), distinguishes Expeditions Unlimited on the basis that “Title 5 uses narrower language than does the FTCA.” Reply at 23. The claim in Dong arose under the Privacy Act, which looks to 5 U.S.C. 552(f) and 551(1) to define its scope, not 5 U.S.C. § 105. The Privacy Act sections do not encompass “independent establishments,” as do both the FTCA and 5 U.S.C. § 105. 125 F.3d at 878-79. In fact, in Dong the D.C. Circuit reaffirmed the Expeditions Unlimited holding that the links between the Smithsonian and the Federal Government “justify classifying the Smithsonian as an ‘independent establishment of the United States’ for purposes of the Federal Tort Claims Act.” Id. at 880. The Government has not, and cannot, point to any reason why the identical phrase “independent establishment” has a different meaning under the FTCA and 5 U.S.C. § 105. Courts in other jurisdictions have followed the lead of the D.C. Circuit in holding that the Smithsonian is an “independent establishment” of the United States. See Marley v. Ibelli, 203 F. Supp. 2d 302, 308-09 (S.D.N.Y. 2001); Benima v. Smithsonian Institution, 471 F. Supp. 62, 65 n.1 (D. Mass. 1979).

The Government’s argument that the FLSA does not apply to the EEOC ignores critical language in one of the cases on which it relies, Jones v. United States, 17 Cl. Ct. 78, 82 (1989). En route to its holding in the case, which was that the EEOC is not an executive department, the Claims Court stated, “that the EEOC is an ‘independent establishment and part of the federal executive branch.’” Id. In making its successful argument that the EEOC is an independent establishment, the Jones plaintiff cited the United States Government Manual (1980-81 ed.). The current version of that Manual similarly includes the EEOC among “Executive Branch: Independent Agencies and Government Corporations.” Available at <https://www.usgovernmentmanual.gov/?AspxAutoDetectCookieSupport=1>.<sup>2</sup>

Numerous courts, including Brown v. Brody, 199 F.3d 446, 452 (D.C. Cir. 1999),<sup>3</sup> which Plaintiffs cited in their Opposition (at 10), hold that the Export-Import Bank is a “Government corporation,” the second category of “executive agency” recognized under 5 U.S.C. § 105. See, e.g., Corporation of Americas, Ltd. v. Export-Import Bank of Washington, 425 F.2d 429, 430 (5th Cir. 1970); Export-Import Bank of the United States v. Agricola del Mar BCS, S.A. de C.V., 536 F. Supp. 2d 345, 346 (S.D.N.Y. 2008); Friends of the Earth, Inc. v. Mosbacher, 488 F. Supp. 2d 889, 895 (N.D. Cal. 2007). The Government never addresses whether the Export-Import Bank is

<sup>2</sup> The Government also incorrectly states that the EEOC is part of the Department of Labor. Reply at 22. It is not. According to the 2020 Government Manual, the EEOC is “a bipartisan commission comprising five members whom the President appoints with the advice and consent of the Senate to staggered 5-year terms.” But if the EEOC were part of the Department of Labor, it would have been subject to the FLSA as part of an executive department, just as the Bureau of Prisons is subject to the FLSA even though it is part of the Department of Justice.

<sup>3</sup> The Government indicates that Steele v. Schafer, 535 F.3d 689 (D.C. Cir. 2008), recognized that Brown had been abrogated. Reply at 23. That abrogation dealt with the standard to prove that acts were retaliatory and had nothing to do with whether the Export-Import Bank is a Government corporation. Id. at 695–96.

a Government corporation, instead arguing that the Bank is not an “independent establishment.” Reply at 23. The fact that the Bank falls within the scope of Section 105 as a “Government corporation” therefore is unrefuted.<sup>4</sup>

B. The Government Fails to Identify Any Way in Which Nine Opt-In Plaintiffs Who Worked for Legislative Agencies Are Dissimilar from the Named Plaintiffs and Hence These Opt-Ins Are Part of this Case.

Despite the Government’s arguments to the contrary, Reply at 19–21, nine opt-in Plaintiffs who worked for the Capitol Police or the Architect of the Capitol are properly part of this case. The Government does not dispute that the FLSA was extended to cover legislative employees. Opp. at 11. It also does not contend that they were dissimilar from the Plaintiffs and other opt-ins as to any of the conditions that would give rise to liability under the FLSA, that is, the Government never asserts that the legislative employees were not Government employees, were classified as exempt, did not work during the first week of October 2013, or were paid on their regularly scheduled paydays. These similarities between the legislative opt-ins and other opt-ins as to the underlying facts distinguish this case from the decisions on which the Government principally relies in arguing against inclusion of the legislative employees. See Anderson v. Cagle’s, Inc., 488 F.3d 945, 952, 954 (11th Cir. 2007) (affirming decertification of collective action because the pay policies that plaintiffs challenged and the protective equipment that employees had to take time to don and doff, supposedly without compensation, differed among members of the collective action); Hamelin v. St. Luke’s Healthcare, 274 F.R.D. 385, 391 (N.D.N.Y. 2011) (granting summary judgment against eight opt-ins who did not testify that they worked through meal breaks

<sup>4</sup> The Government impliedly admits that it did not send notice to employees of the Smithsonian, the EEOC, or the Export-Import Bank. Reply at 19. It makes similar admissions elsewhere as to other groups of employees. The Government’s failure to send notices to all employees entitled to them cannot readily be remedied at this late date but does not alter the identity of opt-ins who are properly part of this case. See Geneva Rock Prods. v. United States, 107 Fed. Cl. 166, 176-77 (2012) (including persons in class at damages stage of case who had not previously received notice and ordering notice to be sent to them).

without pay). Finally, the Government does not contest that the legislative opt-ins were included within the definition of the collective in the complaint and amended complaint. Reply at 19. This case could not be more different than Delpin Aponte v. United States, 83 Fed. Cl. 80, 93 (2008), the only decision of the Court of Federal Claims on which the Government relies on this issue. Reply at 21. The Court in Delpin Aponte denied plaintiffs’ motion filed after years of discovery for leave to amend the complaint to expand the case from United States Postal Service employees in Puerto Rico to employees throughout the United States. 83 Fed. Cl. at 92–93. Here, the proposed collective action in the pleadings included legislative employees, two legislative employees opted in before the parties negotiated and the Court approved a collective action definition for purposes of sending of notice in 2014, and the Government knew that seven others opted in after notice was sent. See, e.g., ECF Nos. 25-1, 104. Plaintiffs are not trying to spring a huge prejudicial surprise on the Government, as in Delpin Aponte.

Instead, the Government argues that the legislative opt-ins are dissimilar to the other Plaintiffs and opt-ins solely because they are not encompassed within the collective action definition adopted by the Court in September 2014 that was used for sending of notice. Reply at 20-21. But 29 U.S.C. § 216(b) allows all “similarly situated” persons to opt in, not just those to whom notice was sent (indeed, notice is not even mentioned in section 216(b)). And, as shown above, the Government presents no argument other than the collective action definition that legislative opt-ins are dissimilar from the other members of the collective action.

If, however, the Court determines that the September 2014 definition precludes legislative employees from joining, plaintiffs request that it amend that order pursuant to RCFC 23(c)(1)(C), which allows amendment of an order granting class certification “before final judgment.” See Geneva Rock Prods., 107 Fed. Cl. at 176-77 (amending definition of class in takings case after recognizing that a previously excluded family had an interest in the property). Plaintiffs are not seeking to add additional plaintiffs, but to prevent the dismissal of nine plaintiffs who timely opted into the case.

C. List of Opt-Ins Who Should Not Be Dismissed Based on their Employing Agencies.

The 14 opt-ins whom the Government challenges based on the agency for which they worked but who are properly participants in this case are identified in Appendix B hereto. Plaintiffs have not contested dismissal of the other 16 opt-ins who are the subject of the Government's memo, as also shown on Appendix B.

III. The Tables Attached As Exhibits C–D<sup>5</sup> Of The Consultants' Declarations And All Opinions In The Declarations Based On Those Tables Are Inadmissible.

In January 2020, the Government introduced as its sole supposed evidence in support of its Motion a declaration from Rodney J. Bosco and David J. Ottenbreit of Chess Consulting LLC. ECF No. 205-1. Tables B and C identified the opt-ins subject to the Motion and the supposed basis for challenging each of those opt-ins. Although the declaration was the sole factual basis presented by the Government for challenging over 2,000 opt-in Plaintiffs, the Government did not present any theory in support of admissibility.

Not knowing how the Government would attempt to justify the Consultants' Declaration, Plaintiffs showed in their Opposition that it was inadmissible under several different possible arguments for admissibility. Opp. at 14-21. With its Reply, the Government submitted a revised declaration, revised versions of Exhibits B and C, and a new Exhibit D. The Government also advanced one argument for admissibility that Plaintiffs anticipated – that the tables supposedly were summaries of voluminous information admissible under Fed. R. Evid. 1006 (Reply at 40-43) – and two arguments that Plaintiffs did not anticipate – that Plaintiffs had waived or were equitably estopped from challenging admissibility of the revised declaration and accompanying tables (id. at 46-50). Each of those arguments are deeply flawed. Revised Exhibits C and D, and the portions of the declaration based on them, are inadmissible.

<sup>5</sup> Plaintiffs' critique does not apply to Exhibit A, which is a list of duplicate opt-ins, or Exhibit B, a list of "unidentified" opt-ins that does not purport to summarize information from any documents other than the name, organizational affiliation, and job title of each such opt-in and whether Plaintiffs provided additional identifying information about that opt-in in response to the January 2020 declaration.

A. The Consultants’ Declaration Does Not Meet the Conditions to be Admitted as a Summary Under Rule 1006.

The tables do not come close to qualifying as summaries under Rule 1006. In their Opposition Plaintiffs identified two deficiencies. First, the Government failed to make “the original or copies of the summarized writings” available to Plaintiffs. Opp. at 20 (quoting Bannum, Inc. v. United States, 59 Fed. Cl. 241, 244-45 (Fed. Cl. 2003)). The Government does not contest the principle, but contends that it would have made the underlying documents available had Plaintiffs requested them, and that it had made a portion of the documents available approximately two years ago when Plaintiffs requested them. Reply at 42. The Government’s attempt to shift the blame to Plaintiffs for failing to request the underlying documents is unavailing; it should have advised Plaintiffs in advance of its intent to use summaries and of the availability of the underlying documents. See State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Lincow, 715 F. Supp. 2d 617, 637 (E.D. Pa. 2010) (finding that plaintiffs satisfied availability requirement by advising defendants “at least two years before the trial ... that the documents were available for review at Plaintiffs’ counsel’s law office, or would be forwarded upon request”); Lorraine v. Markel Am. Ins. Co., 241 F.R.D. 534, 581 (D. Md. 2007) (“the writings, recordings and photographs that are summarized must be made available to the adverse party for examination or copying reasonably in advance of the use of the summary, a requirement that originates from Rule 1006 itself, regardless of whether the adverse party has served a request for production of documents”) (emphasis added).

Second, the Government failed to summarize the contents of the underlying documents in the manner required for a purported summary to be admissible under Rule 1006. Instead, the tables contain only identifying information about each challenged opt-in, such as name, agency, component and job title, and the conclusion of the agency or Chess that the challenged opt-in supposedly was ineligible. The tables do not identify the document(s) on which the agency or Chess relied to reach this conclusion, let alone quote the language from the document(s) that supposedly establish the opt-in's ineligibility. As Plaintiffs made clear in their opposition, this violates the Rule's condition that "the proposed summary (or chart or calculation) must accurately summarize (or reflect) the underlying document(s) and only the underlying document(s)," Opp. at 20-21 (quoting Bannum, 59 Fed. Cl. at 244-45), a condition violated by including Defendant's subjective judgments or conclusions, Opp. at 21 (citing Bath Iron Works Corp. v. United States, 34 Fed. Cl. 218, 233 (1995) (holding that worksheets are inadmissible as summaries of voluminous writings partly because they "incorporated the subjective judgments or conclusions of the estimators").

In reply, the Government relies only on its own ipse dixit that its conclusions "reflect" the information contained in the underlying documents as to whether the opt-ins meet the collective's requirements. Reply at 43. But as numerous courts in addition to the Court of Federal Claims have explained, a party's conclusions are not a proper part of a summary. See, e.g., Eichorn v. AT&T Corp., 484 F.3d 644 (3d Cir. 2007) (excluding purported summaries that "went beyond the data they summarized and included several assumptions, inferences, and projections about future events, which represent Mr. Crowley's opinion, rather than the underlying information"); United States v. Bray, 139 F.3d 1104, 1110 (6th Cir. 1998) (explaining that a Rule 1006 summary must "summarize[] the information contained in the underlying documents accurately, correctly, and in a nonmisleading manner” and not be “embellished by or annotated with the conclusions of or inferences drawn by the proponent, whether in the form of labels, captions, highlighting techniques, or otherwise”).

This case shows the wisdom of the rule that summaries present the relevant contents of the underlying documents rather than the proponent’s conclusions about those documents. In May, Plaintiffs challenged the conclusions that 235 opt-ins were exempt and the Government now admits error about 2 of them; Plaintiffs challenged the conclusions that 192 opt-ins did not work October 1-5, 2013 and the Government now admits error about 32 of them, including 14 whom the Government moved to damages sua sponte after Plaintiffs submitted their reply; and Plaintiffs challenged the conclusions that 39 opt-ins were not paid timely and the Government now admits error about 4 of them, including 3 whom the Government moved to damages sua sponte after Plaintiffs submitted their reply. See Ex. 88 (Oct. 14, 2020 E-mail from Defendant’s Counsel). Plaintiffs would violate their duties to opt-ins meekly to accept the Government’s conclusions as gospel.<sup>6</sup>

The Government then falls back on the policy argument that “discarding Chess’s declarations results in an inherently unworkable burden” that Plaintiffs supposedly already have admitted by stating that it would be “virtually impossible” for Plaintiffs to present direct evidence “concerning each of the Plaintiffs whom the Government is challenging”. Reply at 45. It would be virtually impossible for Plaintiffs because they don’t have access to the documents that the Government reviewed. But it is not “inherently unworkable” for the Government. Instead of <sup>6</sup> For the first time in its reply, the Government contends that 5 of the opt-ins for which it had given erroneous reasons for dismissal should be dismissed for new reasons not previously raised in its motion in January. As discussed below, Plaintiffs challenge the new rationale for each of those opt-ins but the important point for purposes of the Rule 1006 analysis is that the supposed summaries on which the Government relied in its original filing were frequently wrong.

presenting its conclusion for each challenged opt-in, it merely had to identify in the summaries the documents on which it relied to reach those conclusions and what the documents stated. Presumably it collected and reviewed each of those documents; it had only to present that information “accurately, correctly, and in a nonmisleading manner.” But even if complying with the requirements of Rule 1006 would have been somewhat more difficult for the Government than simply stating its conclusions, the attempt to alter the meaning of Rule 1006 to make matters easier for the Government in this case should be rejected. See Bostock v. Clayton Cty., 140 S. Ct. 1731, 1753 (2020) (describing “naked policy appeals” as “the last line of defense for all failing statutory interpretation arguments”).<sup>7</sup>

B. Plaintiffs Did Not Waive and Are Not Equitably Estopped from Contesting the Government’s Use of the Purported Summaries.

The Government contends that Plaintiffs have waived, or should be estopped from contesting, its use of Chess’ analyses. But it fails to focus on what Plaintiffs are challenging. Plaintiffs do not challenge the Government’s retention of Chess or Chess’ role in collecting voluminous information. Rather, Plaintiffs challenge the Government’s failure to present the information that Chess collected in an admissible manner. Plaintiffs never acquiesced in the presentation of the information in a manner that violates Rule 1006. If the Government had complied with the Rule, Plaintiffs and the Court would have known in January 2020 the documents on which the agencies and Chess relied in moving for summary judgment against each of the subject opt-ins and the specific information within those documents that supported judgment. With that knowledge, Plaintiffs would be in a position to agree with the Government where the documents established the grounds for dismissal and to raise factual disputes only about the other opt-ins. But because the Government has ignored the conditions for use of Rule 1006, Plaintiffs have been forced either to blindly acquiesce in the Motion or to oppose it even though it means prolonging an already overly long damages determination process.

<sup>7</sup> Finally, the Government argues that all the documents on which its agents relied to reach their conclusions were admissible. Reply at 43–44. But even if true – which Plaintiffs cannot evaluate because they don’t know the universe of documents relied on – this does not make the Consultants’ Declaration admissible under Rule 1006. The admissibility of the underlying documents is a condition for a Rule 1006 summary, not a substitute for appropriately summarizing those documents. See Bannum, 59 Fed. Cl. at 244–45 (identifying as a condition that “the underlying evidence must itself be admissible”) (quoting Bath Iron Works, 34 Fed. Cl. at 232–33).

Plaintiffs and their counsel, as representatives of the opt-ins, could not simply acquiesce in the conclusions in Chess' tables that none of the subject opt-ins were similarly situated to the Plaintiffs. Putting aside the opt-ins for whom summary judgment is inappropriate on purely legal grounds, Plaintiffs submitted with their Opposition factual information that directly or indirectly challenged the conclusion that the Government was entitled to summary judgment. The Government has admitted that it was mistaken as to 118 of them: it moved 94 of them to "damages" and 24 to other ineligibility categories.

In addition to being wrong about the facts related to numerous opt-ins, the Government is wrong legally in contending for waiver or equitable estoppel. To establish waiver, it acknowledges that it must show that Plaintiffs "inten[ded] to relinquish such right, privilege, advantage or benefit" to be waived. Reply at 46 (quoting Hahnenkamm, LLC v. United States, 147 Fed. Cl. 383, 389 (2020)). Here, the Government would have to show that Plaintiffs intended to waive their rights under Federal Rule of Evidence 1006 or the Federal Rules of Evidence generally. It has cited two documents in supposed support of waiver, presumably including Plaintiffs' intent to waive their rights under the Rules of Evidence. The parties' Joint Motion to Suspend Proceedings, filed March 9, 2017, informed the Court that counsel for defendant had identified a consultant acceptable to counsel for plaintiffs to assist in the calculation of damages. It continued, "Once engaged, a consultant will ... develop a methodology for calculating the amount of damages each plaintiff is due, and to present that methodology to counsel for plaintiffs and counsel for defendant.

Once the methodology is agreed upon, the consultant will calculate the amount of damages and present the findings to counsel for plaintiffs and counsel for defendant.” ECF No. 162, at 1-2; see also 4-28-17 Joint Status Report (reiterating that consultant will develop a damages methodology and that “[o]nce the methodology is agreed upon, the consultant will calculate the amount of damages and present the findings to counsel for plaintiffs and counsel for defendant”). Plaintiffs never intended to or did waive their rights under the Federal Rules of Evidence if they disagreed with the consultant, Chess.

For the Government’s alternative assertion of equitable estoppel to apply, it must show “(1) misleading conduct, which may include not only statements and action but silence and inaction, leading [the Government] to reasonably infer that rights will not be asserted against it; (2) reliance upon this conduct; and (3) due to this reliance, material prejudice if the delayed assertion of such rights is permitted.” Reply at 48 (quoting Lincoln Logs Ltd. v. Lincoln Pre-Cut Log Homes, Inc., 971 F.2d 732, 734 (Fed. Cir. 1992)). To show misleading conduct and detrimental reliance, the Government mentions meetings between counsel and Chess that occurred in August 2018 and September 2019 and several Joint Status Reports (“JSRs”). Id. at 48, 49. Contrary to the Government’s suggestion, these meetings and filings reasonably should have caused the Government to infer that Plaintiffs would assert their evidentiary rights. At the August 2018 meeting, “[c]ounsel for plaintiffs requested follow-up information concerning the consultant’s presentation” and, in the next JSR, the parties repeated the earlier formulation that “[o]nce the parties agree upon the methodology, and all outstanding data are collected, the consultant can then calculate the amount of liquidated damages that the plaintiffs may be due.” Sept. 17, 2018 JSR (ECF No. 187) at 1. Shortly after the September 2019 meeting, the parties reported that the consultant had “concluded that more than 2,000 of the 25,251 individuals who opted into the suit are ineligible for damages” but reported nothing about what actions Plaintiffs would take in response to the conclusion. Sept. 24, 2019 JSR (ECF No. 200) at 1. That changed the next month. The parties reported that the Government intended to move to dismiss the unidentified opt-ins but that “counsel for plaintiff intends to object to any motion to dismiss.” Oct. 24, 2019 JSR (ECF No. 201) at 2. By early January 2020 the intended motion had expanded to “a motion to dismiss, or alternatively, for summary judgment, on the claims of the approximately 2,400 plaintiffs (1) who have not been identified sufficiently for the Government to confirm their employment during the 2013 lapse in appropriations, or (2) that defendant’s consultants have determined are ineligible for damages.” Jan. 8, 2020 JSR (ECF No. 204) at 1. Once again, however, “Plaintiffs intend to object to this motion.” Id. The Plaintiffs never indicated that they would blindly accept any type of factual presentation in support of the Motion. Plaintiffs did not mislead the Government, and hence they are not equitably estopped to oppose the consideration of inadmissible evidence.

IV. The Government Has Not Met Its Burden Of Proof To Show That Over 220 Plaintiffs Are FLSA Exempt.

A. The Government Has the Burden of Proof to Show that Opt-Ins Are Exempt.

Plaintiffs showed in their Opposition that the contention that employees are FLSA exempt is an affirmative defense and, accordingly, employers bear the burden of proof to establish the existence of an exemption. Opp. at 12-14. The Government does not dispute this rule, but instead reaches out for a different rule that produces a contrary outcome in this case, namely, that Plaintiffs should have the burden of establishing that the Government classified each opt-in as exempt in October 2013 in order to show that the opt-ins properly were part of the collective action. Reply at 10, 24. The Government fails to cite a decision that addresses which party has the burden when classification as exempt is a basis for exclusion from a collective action. See Halle v. W. Penn

Allegheny Health Sys. Inc., 842 F.3d 215, 226 (3d Cir. 2016) (dismissing appeal for lack of appellate jurisdiction without ever mentioning the collective action definition let alone identifying which party had the burden of proof when exempt status was a basis for exclusion from the collective); Comer v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 454 F.3d 544, 548 (6th Cir. 2006) (same); Morgan v. Family Dollar Stores, 551 F.3d 1233, 1260, 1269 (11th Cir. 2008) (affirming denial of decertification of claims that chain misclassified store managers as exempt, while explaining both that employer has burden to establish exemption and that employees have burden to establish that other employees are similarly situated).

To resolve which of these two rules should govern in this situation, the Court should look to the principle, which the Government does not even attempt to rebut, that courts should place the burden of proof on the party with superior access to the relevant information. Opp. at 29-30 (citing Medina v. California, 505 U.S. 437, 455 (1992); Int'l Bhd. of Teamsters v. United States, 431 U.S. 324, 359 n.45 (1977); Conoco Inc. v. Dep't of Energy, 99 F.3d 387, 397 (Fed. Cir. 1996); Indus. Fasteners Group v. United States, 710 F.2d 1576, 1582 n.10 (Fed. Cir. 1983)). The Government obviously has far superior access to information than do Plaintiffs. With its reply, the Government submitted declarations from six human resource employees concerning the FLSA status of certain opt-ins; these HR employees were able to access documents for plaintiffs, which the Government attached as exhibits. Def. Exs. E, F, G, H, L, M (ECF Nos. 230-5, 6, 7, 8, 12, 13). By contrast, the opt-ins relied on documents that they may have retained from their job six years ago to support their belief that they were non-exempt. Pls. Exs. 1, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 51, 52, 67 (ECF No. 222). Many opt-ins lack any documentation. The Government has the burden of proof to establish that opt-ins were exempt.

B. The Government Is Collaterally Estopped from Denying that 14 Bureau of Prison Teachers Whom Arbitrators Have Ruled Were Misclassified in October 2013 Were Non-Exempt for Purposes of this Lawsuit.

The Government does not dispute that arbitrators previously found that the Bureau of Prisons (“BOP”) had misclassified teachers at two correctional institutions and that, in October 2013, they actually were non-exempt. Reply at 28. It does not argue that it was denied the opportunity to litigate the misclassification issue “fully and fairly before the arbitrator.” Kroeger v. United States Postal Service, 865 F.2d 235 (Fed. Cir. 1988). Rather, the Government argues that these teachers should not be included in the action because Plaintiffs had not alleged a misclassification claim in their complaint. Reply at 28. It relies on Adams v. United States, 48 Fed. Cl. 602 (2001), in which the Court during damages calculations rejected plaintiffs’ challenge to the Government’s classification of certain overtime hours as administratively uncontrollable because plaintiffs had not raised a claim for reclassifying plaintiffs’ hours in their complaint and the Government hence was not on notice that this was an issue. Id. at 611-12.

But this case is critically different than Adams. In that case, the correctness of the Government’s classification of overtime hours as administratively uncontrollable had not previously been litigated. Allowing plaintiffs to raise the issue at the damages phase would mean a separate adjudication of whether the hours truly were administratively uncontrollable and the Government had had no opportunity to conduct discovery or otherwise prepare for such an adjudication. By contrast, in this case, the Government is collaterally estopped from contesting that the 14 teachers were non-exempt in October 2013. See Kroeger, 865 F.2d at 238-39 (holding that plaintiff was collaterally estopped from relitigating whether he misused postal funds because he failed to make “a specific showing that the precise dispute was not fairly litigated and resolved before the arbitrator”). Consequently, the parties may not relitigate the issue of whether the 14 teachers were non-exempt and the Government was not prejudiced in any way by not having notice to conduct discovery about the issue.

C. The Government's False and Misleading Attacks on Plaintiffs' Counsel Cannot Substitute for its Failure to Meet the Standards for Waiver and Estoppel.

Presumably realizing that it does not come close to meeting the standards for waiver and estoppel, the Government engages in misleading attacks on Plaintiffs' counsel. Even if true these attacks could not absolve it of the obligation to show that the standards for waiver or estoppel were made.

Within two weeks after the Court's ruling on liquidated damages, the parties met and suggested to the Court on March 9, 2017 that the Government engage a consultant to collect the data on each Plaintiff and opt-in, present a proposed methodology to counsel for both parties, and once there was agreement on the methodology, apply it. ECF No. 162. The Court adopted the proposal. ECF No. 163. The Government identified the consultants, Chess Consulting LCC, in whom Plaintiffs acquiesced. ECF No. 162.

The next year and a half was consumed primarily by the consultant's collection and standardization of data so that a methodology could be applied. E.g. July 7, 2017, JSR (ECF No. 169); Aug. 17, 2018, JSR (ECF No. 186). Plaintiffs' counsel had little to do. The Government requested Plaintiffs to provide additional information about 248 opt-ins on April 6, 2018 to help it identify those individuals; Plaintiffs provided updated information for 130 of them in August 2018. See Ex. 87 (2018 E-mail Correspondence Discussing Unidentified Plaintiffs). It provided another list of 243 plaintiffs on September 6, 2019, and Plaintiffs provided additional information for 48 opt-ins on December 3, 2019. Id.

In August 2018 the consultants met with both parties' counsel. Reply at 37 (citing Chess Decl. ¶ 16). It was Plaintiffs' counsel's first meeting with the consultants. The consultants made clear that they were still gathering information from some agencies but provided preliminary numbers and their proposed methodology. During the August 2018 meeting, Plaintiffs expressed their concerns about the methods used by the Government and the consultants to categorize plaintiffs as ineligible for damages and its reliance on Agency representations in many instances without reviewing underlying data. Plaintiffs also questioned the consultants' methodology for calculating overtime damages. The Government and consultants decided to perform a 10% sample to address the first concern, Ex. C at 62 (Sept. 7, 2018 Email) – the sample disclosed systematic errors by at least one agency, Reply at 38 – and it took many months but the Government ultimately agreed with Plaintiffs' approach to calculating overtime damages.

Thirteen months passed before another meeting occurred among counsel and the consultants, in September 2019. During that period, the consultants were still gathering and systematizing data and conducting the sample. Because Plaintiffs did not promptly agree to the dismissal of all 2,400 opt-ins who the consultants had concluded did not have valid claims, the Government filed this motion. Plaintiffs requested the Government wait to file the motion to give them more time to resolve disputes; the Government agreed to wait only until January 2020. See, e.g., Ex. 89 (Dec. 16, 2019 E-mail chain) (stating “I do not understand why providing additional time to file the motion would be more helpful than requesting an extension to respond.”).

This chronology does not support the Government's contentions that Plaintiffs' counsel were dilatory or that it “repeatedly tried to reach agreement with plaintiffs to dismiss questionable opt-ins absent further Court involvement so that Chess could finalize its damage calculations.” Reply at 3. Rather, once Chess finally completed the project, the Government expected Plaintiffs' counsel readily to submit to the exclusion of 10% of the opt-ins without providing them underlying data.

Even after receiving the Government's reply brief, Plaintiffs suggested that the parties exchange information to permit the parties to resolve at least some disputes. Plaintiffs have no desire to retain individuals in the case who are truly not eligible. However, Plaintiffs still cannot distinguish eligible from ineligible opt-ins primarily because of the Government's failure to provide the types of information required in an admissible summary exhibit.

D. Eleven Custom and Border Patrol Officers Are Entitled to Damages.

In our Opposition, Plaintiffs introduced SF-50 forms for four plaintiffs indicating that the 24 opt-ins who held the position of Custom and Border Patrol Officers ("CBPOs") were non-exempt. Opp. at 26–27. With its Reply, the Government introduced SF-50 reflecting that those four plaintiffs were exempt because they held the position of a CBPO supervisor or were CBPOs stationed outside the country during the October 2013 shutdown. Exs. A-D to Drake Decl. (ECF No. 230-5).<sup>8</sup> The Government does not present evidence contesting that non-supervisor CBPOs working in the country were non-exempt. The difference in treatment of supervisory and non-supervisory CBPOs is exemplified by opt-in Pierre Printemps. When he was supervisory, he was exempt, Ex. B to Drake Decl. (ECF No. 230-5); when he was non-supervisory, he was non-exempt, Ex. 9 to Opp. (ECF No. 222-1). Similarly, Isaias Maldonado, whom the Government challenges as unidentified, has attached to his declaration an SF-50 form showing that he was non-exempt. Ex 80. The fact that the Government does not contend that 13 opt-ins who also identified as CBPOs were exempt constitutes an admission by silence that bolsters the evidence that CBPOs were non-exempt unless supervisory or stationed outside the country.

<sup>8</sup> The FLSA does not apply extraterritorially. See Rozelle v. United States, 2005 U.S. Claims LEXIS 511, at *10 (Fed. Cl. July 29, 2005).

Eleven of the 24 CPBO opt-ins identified in the Opposition are not shown as supervisory or as stationed outside the country in Defendants' spreadsheets. At minimum, genuine issues of fact as to their exempt status preclude the grant of summary judgment as to them.

E. Over 200 Transportation Safety Officers ("TSOs")<sup>9</sup> Are Similarly Situated to the Other Opt-Ins and Entitled to Damages.

The parties agree that section 111(d) of the Aviation and Transportation Security Act (ATSA), 49 U.S.C. § 44935 (note), gives the Transportation Safety Administration discretion to establish levels of compensation for TSOs "notwithstanding any other provision of law." They disagree about the implications of that language. According to Plaintiffs, section 111(d) precludes application of the FLSA only where the FLSA is inconsistent with any directives issued by the TSA. Opp. at 24. According to the Government, section 111(d) precludes application of the FLSA to TSOs at all. Reply at 26-27.

The primary case on which the Government relies, Jones v. United States, 88 Fed. Cl. 789 (2009), undermines its reading of the statute. No less than seven times, the opinion states that Congress intended "to override conflicting provisions of law," or contains similar formulations. Id. at 792-93. Under this "conflict" approach, section 111(d) does not completely supersede the FLSA unless the TSA has so completely occupied the areas of overtime and minimum wages for TSOs to make all portions of the FLSA "conflicting."

In October 2013, the TSA had committed to "pay eligible employees premium pay to which they are entitled based on the policy and procedures outlined in [Management Directive 1100.55-8] and the accompanying handbook." N. Sikorsky Decl. (ECF No. 230-4), ¶ 5. The handbook contains a section on "Determining Whether a Position/Employee is FLSA Exempt or Non-

<sup>9</sup> In their Opposition Plaintiffs counted 205 TSOs. The Government includes people with several other job titles and calculates there are 214 TSOs. Reply at 25. Plaintiffs accept the Government's inclusion of nine extra opt-ins as TSOs.

Exempt.” It identifies factors to be considered in making the determination, which will affect “the types and amounts of premium pay an employee may earn.” Ex. B to N. Sikorsky Decl. (ECF No. 230-4), § B.2. The handbook defines the FLSA as “establish[ing] minimum wage, overtime pay, recordkeeping, and child labor standards affecting FT and PT workers in the private sector and in Federal, State, and local governments,” without excepting the TSA itself. Id., § A.17. The handbook states that “[t]he exemption status of an employee may be identified in Block 35 of an employee’s most recent SF-50, Notification of Personnel Action,” id. § B.2, the same form used by all other agencies. Block 35 is entitled “FLSA Category” and requires entry of either an “E” for exempt or an “N” for non-exempt. Ex. C to N. Sikorsky Decl. (ECF No. 230-4). Natasha Sikorsky, a TSA HR managers, admits that the agency “has adopted a personnel management system for its screening workforce that mirrors certain FLSA provisions regarding how to calculate pay.” N. Sikorsky Decl. (ECF No. 230-4), ¶ 12. To the extent that TSA mirrors the FLSA, the provisions are not “conflicting.” In particular, nothing in the handbook discusses employee rights if the TSA pays them after their regularly scheduled paydays. The Government has not identified any conflicts between the FLSA and the TSA provisions on the payment of minimum wage or overtime relevant to this lawsuit. There is thus no basis for contending that TSA non-exempt employees are dissimilar from other non-exempt Government employees who worked during the shutdown and were not paid overtime or minimum wage on their regularly scheduled paydays.

F. List of Plaintiffs Who Should Not Be Dismissed as Exempt

The 9 opt-ins for whom Plaintiffs have created a genuine issue of fact about whether they were classified as FLSA exempt in October 2013 are listed in Appendix C. Also shown in Exhibit C are the opt-ins for whom Plaintiffs have been unable to rebut the Government’s evidence that they were exempt. The other Plaintiffs who the Government claims were exempt should not be dismissed because of the Government's failure to meet its burden of proof.

V. The Government Is Not Entitled to Summary Judgment For The Opt-Ins that Allegedly Did Not Work More Than Four Hours Between October 1 And October 5, 2013.

In its initial filing, the Government sought to exclude 192 opt-ins as not working more than four hours during October 1-5, 2013. The Government now admits that it erred as to 32 of those opt-ins, almost 20%, in that they did work during those five days. Reply at 32. In addition to the 39 individuals identified in plaintiffs' opposition who performed work during this period, defendant re-checked its records as to all 192 opt-ins and identified an additional 14 examples of plaintiffs who it wrongly deemed ineligible. Ex. 88 (Oct. 14, 2020 E-mail from Defendant's Counsel).<sup>10</sup> The Government admits that it erred as to nearly half the opt-ins for whom Plaintiffs submitted additional information of work during October 1-5. Id. This 20% error rate in itself creates a genuine issue of fact as to whether any opt-in whom the Government identifies as not working actually did work October 1-5. See Katzman v. L.A. County Metro. Transp. Auth., 72 F. Supp. 3d 1091, 1103-04 (N.D. Cal. 2014) (holding that defendant's 8% error rate in determining whether to terminate pensions, and other factors, created a genuine issue precluding summary judgment).<sup>11</sup>

The Government's motion is especially problematic as to 91 BOP opt-ins. Plaintiffs stated in their Opposition that "all BOP employees at the prisons (as opposed to regional and headquarters

<sup>10</sup> Defendants incorrectly state that 18 of 39 opt-ins for whom Plaintiffs produced additional information moved to damages. Reply at 32 (citing Chess Decl. ¶¶ 28-29). However, Chess explained they moved only 17 of those 39 to damages, moved one to the FLSA exempt category, and confirmed 21 did not work because the "challenger's furlough hours were not reversed in a later pay period, or were reversed and recorded to a leave category[.]" Chess Decl. ¶¶ 28-29.

<sup>11</sup> The net number of opt-ins the Government is challenging as not working only went down by 25, to 167, primarily because it has moved some opt-ins whom it previously classified as unidentified to the "did not work" category. Reply at 32.

employees) were ‘excepted’ from the furlough.” Opp. at 35. The Government quibbles in reply that “[s]ome BOP employees were ordered to work during the 2013 shutdown, especially those at correctional institutions” and that “[p]rimary law enforcement officers were deemed essential and required to come to work if scheduled.” Hargett Decl. ¶ 19 (ECF No. 230-7). Despite these admissions, the Government continues to contend that 91 BOP employees did not work during the first five days of October. Ex. C to Chess Decl. (ECF No. 230-1). Of those 91, 49 were correctional officers or senior correctional officers, who surely qualify as “[p]rimary law enforcement officers,” and only two give job locations at a central or regional headquarters. Id. Finally, 14 of the 91 BOP opt-ins have submitted declarations that they worked October 1-5, often supporting their memories of working with print-outs from the Agency’s roster program or other documents. Appendix C. The Government suggests that the Agency’s roster program is not as reliable of a record of whether an employee worked as BOP’s time and attendance records, but admits that rosters are “updated to reflect changes, such as if an employee does not report to work or if an employee performs overtime work” and that rosters are “supposed to be updated retrospectively as well.” Hargett Decl. ¶ 5 (ECF No. 230-7). Plaintiffs’ attach two declarations by BOP employees who served as Time and Attendance (“T&A”) clerks who explained that employees in the Correctional Services Department are paid directly from the roster program. Ex. 85 (Brandy Moore Decl.); Ex. 86 (Melissa Hallmark Decl.). Indeed, Agency policy requires that supervisory lieutenants “are responsible for ensuring the Daily Roster is accurate.” Ex. 85 (Brandy Moore Decl.) ¶ 6 (citing and attaching Program Statement – Correctional Services Manual at Chapter 1, page 2).

Regardless how many of the BOP opt-ins ultimately are able to prove that they worked October 1-5, 2013, the combination of the Government’s admissions, the Plaintiffs’ evidence, and the job locations and titles of the opt-ins are sufficient to create genuine issues of fact precluding summary judgment.

The 19 opt-ins for whom Plaintiffs have created a genuine issue of fact about whether they worked more than four hours between October 1 and October 5, 2013 are listed in Appendix D.

VI. The Government Erroneously Treats Opt-Ins As Having Been Paid on Time.

The Government now seeks summary judgment against 398 opt-ins who it claims were paid timely, 312 of whom worked for three agencies – the Department of Defense (304), Department of State (3), and Veteran’s Administration (5) – that it alleges were able to pay their employees timely. See Reply at 35 n.15; Pay Our Military Act, Public Law No: 113-39 (Sep. 30, 2013).<sup>12</sup> As a preliminary matter, while plaintiffs have no reason to dispute that the Department of State and Veteran’s Administration had funding to timely pay its employees during the shutdown, the Government previously acknowledged that approximately 115,000 civilian Department of Defense employees were not paid on time because timekeepers were furloughed and could not process employees who should have been paid pursuant to the Pay Our Military Act. Jan. 30, 2015 JSR (ECF No. 59) at 2-3. Summary judgment would, however, be inappropriate against at least 40 of the other 86 opt-ins who worked at Agencies which did not have funding based on supposed timely payment of minimum wage or overtime pay.<sup>13</sup>

<sup>12</sup> In addition, U.S. Citizenship & Immigration Services (USCIS) received 95% of its funding through fees, and the SBA’s Office of Disaster Assistance had continuing funding. <https://www.immigrationvisaattorneyblog.com/immigration-and-the-government-shutdown-2013/>; https://www.sba.gov/sites/default/files/OMB Approved SBA Shutdown Plan 20130927.PDF. Plaintiffs exclude their opt-ins from the analysis below.

<sup>13</sup> This is not to say that summary judgment would be appropriate for the other 357 opt-ins flagged by the Government. For the reasons explained in the Opposition, Plaintiffs continue to maintain that the Government failed to adequately explain its bases for moving for summary judgment. Moreover, even in agencies with funding such as the Department of Defense, some employees were not paid timely, for example, because the employees who processed payments were furloughed. Jan. 30, 2015 JSR (ECF No. 59) at 2-3.

Four types of evidence create genuine issues of fact as to whether the 40 opt-ins in the agencies below were paid timely. First, the agencies either had no funds at all with which to pay employees until the shutdown ended, or funds to pay employees only in certain limited operations.<sup>14</sup> Second, in its filings in this case the Government has not identified these agencies as having funds with which to pay employees. Third, Plaintiffs have submitted declarations from employees in several of the agencies stating that they were not paid timely and the Government has not attempted to rebut them. And finally, the Government has not moved to dismiss most employees from these agencies based on supposedly timely payments, either in its original motion or in response to Plaintiffs' opposition to that motion. The table below identifies each of the agencies, the number of employees subject to the Government's motion for which summary judgment is inappropriate, and each of these types of evidence creating genuine factual issues as to opt-ins from that agency:

Agency	No. of Pls. Who Def. Contends Paid Timely	Cite Stating Agency Did Not Have Funding	Gov't Does Not Contend Funding Existed	Declarations or Other Information Suggesting Agency Did Not Timely Pay Employees	No. Opt-Ins From Same Agency Who Def. Did Not Challenge as Paid on Time
DHS-ICE	1	Surreply Ex. 90	Yes		8
DOJ	1	Surreply Ex. 91	Yes
DOJ- BOP <sup>15</sup>	15	Surreply Ex. 92	Yes		15

<sup>14</sup> Most of the cited documents are inadmissible hearsay and hence not typically appropriate in opposing a summary judgment motion. Plaintiffs nonetheless submit them because of their limited purpose, to show that agencies did not have funding sources independent of the appropriation process for most employees. The documents' limited purpose is not to show that a particular employee was or was not paid on time, but merely to create, in conjunction with the other evidentiary sources, a factual dispute sufficient to preclude summary judgment.

<sup>15</sup> As described in Exhibit 92, the BOP had funds independent of the appropriation process with which to pay UNICOR and Trust Fund employees. Based on their job titles, the following 15 opt-ins worked outside those two areas: Catney, Chris; Davidson, Sharon; Frias, Jose; Hundley, Brian; Mahadeo, Natram; Mastroianni, Aaron; Miller-

DOJ-DEA	3	Surreply Ex. 93	Yes
DOL	2	Surreply Ex. 94	Yes
GAO	1		Yes
HHS	3	Surreply Ex. 95	Yes		4
Treasury-IRS	7	Surreply Ex. 96	Yes	Jan. 30, 2015 JSR (ECF No. 59) at 2-3.	4
USDA-APHIS	3	Surreply Ex. 97	Yes		6
USDA-ARS	2		Yes
USIS-FSIS	2	Surreply Ex. 98	Yes		16

Granted, none of these four types of evidence establishes that an opt-in was paid after his or her regularly scheduled payday. But Plaintiffs do not have to establish a violation at this time, only the existence of a genuine issue of material fact. The opt-ins for whom Plaintiffs have created a genuine issue of fact about whether they were paid on their regularly scheduled paydays for work performed October 1-5, 2020, including the 40 opt-ins who are the subject of the analysis above, are listed in Appendix E.

CONCLUSION

Despite almost 70 pages of briefs, the Government has failed to establish that it is entitled to dismissal on jurisdictional grounds or summary judgment against about 10% of the opt-ins subject to its motion. Its motion should be denied as to over 90% of the 2,319 opt-ins against which it is directed.
